

Introductory Poem

Jessica
She moves by the music of the world
Loud, outgoing, willing
Daughter of a loving mother
Who loves to dance under the stars, sing in the rain
And run with her friends
Who feels like the world is on her shoulders,
Everyone is watching her
And a unwelcoming vibe from all but animals
Who needs her best friend,
More people to rely on and to set free
Who gives nothing but love,
Hope for others and supportive talks
Who fears spiders, loosing things
And growing old alone
Who would like to see her father once again
Who lives in a world where kids
Hate on one another
Who walks to the world where everyone's
Heart beats as one, she is a

(her last name)

Note: this corner contained a photo Jessica scanned in and added to the composition.

